

Vidyo for Behavioral and Mental Health

What are Your Needs?

- Do you need immediate/ emergency consults by a mental health professional to help assess and treat patients who come in in crisis?
- Are your mental health specialists spending more time travelling from clinic to clinic and less time treating patients?
- Are patients less engaged or missing appointments as they transition from one phase of treatment to another, like inpatient to outpatient treatment?
- Would you like to be able to create and provide support group services to behavioral and mental health patients and families who may be geographically disperse or have transportation difficulties?

Behavioral and Mental Health is as important as traditional health care and is extremely well suited for video conferencing. E-Therapy and tele-mental health are both terms that refer to this type of healthcare.

The Vidyo Solution

The need for immediate behavioral and mental health consults

In a time of crisis, Vidyo can be used to bring in a mental health professional to observe, assess and recommend an immediate course of treatment. No matter what the setting -schools, emergency rooms, corrections facilities, etc., Vidyo can connect professional and patient.

The need to ensure a continuum of care as patients move through the health system

Often a patient and provider develop a strong relationship and repore that greatly helps during the treatment process. However, patients often move through the mental health system – from inpatient facilities to outpatient - and somethings can get lost in that transition. Vidyo can connect the patient with a system of providers to ensure a smooth transition and succesful treatment.

The need to reach patients who are hesitant to receive care because of the stigma associated with mental and behavioral health treatment

Some patients are hesitant to travel to a mental health care facility because of the stigma associated with this type of care. Through Vidyo, these patients can meet with a behavioral health specialist from the convenience and safety of their own home or any setting that is comfortable for the patient.

The need to connect behavioral health patients with support groups

Vidyo can connect behavioral health patients and their families with virtual support groups and resources. This type of informal treatment can help provide additional information outlets and help patients monitor themselves.
